NATIVE SONS
HOSTS FOR GUARDS

Judge John F. Pullen Is
Chief Speaker Following
Dinner Tuesday Night

Officers of Company D, 115th Engineers, California National Guard, said Wednesday the company is ordered to leave Placerville at 1:15 o'clock Monday morning, March 17th, traveling by bus to Roseville.

They will entrain at Roseville, possibly with other National Guard units, and proceed by train to Camp San Luis Obispo.

Members of Company D, 115th Engineers, California National Guard, had their second "night out" in succession Tuesday night when they were guests of Placerville Parlor No. 9, Native Sons of the Golden West, at a turkey dinner served in the banquet room at the Masonic Hall.

Plates were laid for approximately two hundred, including the eighty members of Company D, other guests, and members of Placerville Parlor.

Following dinner, the assemblage adjourned to the main lodge hall for the formal program, which had District Attorney Henry S. Lyon, Grand President of the Native Sons of the Golden West, as master of ceremonies.

The meeting was especially honored by the presence of Judge John F. Pullen, of Sacramento, presiding judge of the Third District Court of Appeals, who brought an interesting message as the principal speaker of the evening.

Other guests of the parlor included civic and official leaders of the county and of the city and among those who were called upon to speak were Judge George H. Thompson.

Travel Section
Met Tuesday

South America Study Is
Continued; Conservation
Topic For Program Day

The travel section of the Shakespeare Club continued its South American study on Tuesday, with data supplied by Mrs. M. P. Bennett, on the early Inca civilization, religion and agricultural pursuits.

Mrs. W. M. Caldwell read an interesting article dealing with the discovery recently, by archaeologists, consisting of gold coins and buried treasure belonging to these ancient peoples.

At the request of members, Mrs. E. D. Golden re-read an interesting letter from a friend who had been traveling in South America and had made a pilgrimage to the Galapagos Islands off the coast of Ecuador. Humor interspersed with fact makes the writer's letters very interesting and entertaining.

Program day on Tuesday, March 18th, will provide conversation features by a competent speaker who will provide moving pictures illustrating the necessity for public cooperation in this great cause.

Wilma Baard, the barge captain's daughter, is shown with her husband, Count Nava de Tajo, after their marriage in New York, culminating a two-week romance. CLUB FASHION
SHOW SUCCESS

Entertainment Program
Presented As Models
Display Women's Wear

On Friday, March 7th, the Placerville Shakespeare club provided the setting for one of the most outstanding social events of the season when the Spring fashion show was presented so successfully.

The decorative effect in the spacious lobby was greatly enhanced by a huge basket of varied blossoms contributed and artistically arranged by Ms. Frank Tombs, every flower being the product of her own lovely garden.

The auditorium and stage presented a very attractive appearance in peach blossom decoration under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. A. Hodapp, assisted by Mrs. Bert Pierroz. The same color scheme was carried out at the individual tables, tastefully arranged by Mrs. A. A. McKinnon.

Fully one hundred fifty women comprised the audience gathered to observe the latest fashions and to enjoy the interesting entertainment program provided by Mrs. John Palmer as chairman.

A cordial poetic greeting, delivered by Miss Colice Ann Palmer, opened the afternoon affair which was followed with a tap dance by the little lady herself, Miss Lavonne Nolan attired in a filmy ballet costume of delicate pink, exhibited the spirit of Spring in a graceful and lifting dance, quite in keeping with the occasion.

The remainder of the program was interspersed with musical numbers and the modeling of women's wear in varying modes and styles. Mrs. M. E. Wright contributed a very pleasing piano selection and Mrs. L. T. Cook most graciously rendered two vocal solos, "Jonquil Yellow," and "Alice Blue Gown," accompanied by Mrs. Wright at the piano.

Mrs. Walter Drysdale, nattily dressed, and wearing a chic little hat of natural rose buds, a gift of the Placerville Flower Shop, very clearly and distinctly announced the names of those who were selected as manikins and the shops providing the new and delightful styles, these latter ranging from morning dresses to formal and charming negligees, hats and other accessories, coats, capes and sweaters.

The little misses came in for their share of fashion too and modestly displayed dresses, slacks and play suits. The eternal feminine is in evidence at a very early age and these small young ladies gave ample proof of their ability to wear their new spring togs with ease.

The various shops that contributed to this fashion display are entitled to more than ordinary recognition for their ability to select outstanding apparel for every woman's

SKIERS MEET
AT H.S. ON THURSDAY

Winter Sports Movies, Plans
For Sunday Tournament To Be Major Item Of Evening

Placerville Ski Club will complete plans for its first tournament at 7:30 o'clock at the high school auditorium.

This is the regular Ski Club meeting, but it is held this time at the high school instead of at the P. G. & E. Company hall, to make it possible to present a winter sports motion picture provided by the courtesy of the Union Pacific System.

Interest in the movies of winter sports at Sun Valley, Idaho, recently shown before the club, was so great that arrangements were made to obtain additional winter sports movies from the railroad company.

According to Bert Parsons, Ski Club president, an unusual amount of interest is being shown in the club's plans for a tournament at the Lover's Leap Ski Area on Sunday, March 16th.

The tournament is sponsored exclusively by the Placerville Ski Club and the competitive events for men, women and children are being arranged so that the more experienced skiers will compete in their own class, while the novices will fight—and fall—it out together.

Prizes will be awarded in all events to the first, second and third place winners.

Support Needed

The Girls League reaped a bounteous harvest of golden coin—or, corn, if one speaks of the puppet show—all of which will go toward their scholarship. But they should contribute some for garters for the black-face dancers who spent half their time hoisting those long black stockings!

The Play's The Thing
Bill Liddicoet is going to work on his part for the Junior Play, "The Cat and the Canary," till he turns blue in the face. We mean this literally, too, for he's been falling on that part of his anatomy for the last week while rehearsing for his part as a corpse in the second act of the play.

The above item will demonstrate that ye reporter, despite well nigh insurmountable orthographic difficulties, always does his duty as he sees it. Liddicoet has long maintained that we have condemned him to oblivion because we couldn't spell his name, and now, in this one article, we've done it twice!

Tennis Practice
Tennis Coach Ramsey has had his charges out in the sunshine this week in preparation for the coming season. One group of players show their stuff on Mondays and Fridays, another group come around on Tuesdays and Thursdays, and the beginners and dubs have Wednesdays all to themselves.

Two of the squad's best players graduated last June, so now there's a mad scramble for first string positions. "Flash" Allen and Dan Walter head the ladder at present, but Jerry Davis and John Weidman who are just getting back into form after basketball season, will make it plenty hot for the jads on top.

Saw 'em, Anyway

Colleen Clayton did everything but don a khaki uniform in order to catch a glimpse of the National Guard, and when she finally managed to sneak through the fence, there were about twenty fugitives from a girls' gym class standing around ogling the uniforms! That's like spending all day climbing a rocky cliff only to find a four-lane

HOMEMAKERS
TO MEET
3 DAYS

Two Sessions Thursday,
One In Evening Devoted To Homes And Planning

Homemakers of the county met early Wednesday afternoon at the Shakespeare Clubhouse to greet Miss Nancy Baker, home economist, conducting the Happy Kitchen Cooking School.

The cooking school, presented under the sponsorship of this newspaper, will continue on Thursday and Friday at the clubhouse with sessions opening at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

In addition to the afternoon meetings, there will be a special gathering on Thursday evening which will be devoted to an elaboration of the Model Homes and Home Appliance features of the three-day program devoted to homemaking in the county.

While the afternoon program of the cooking school is devoted essentially to matters of homemaking which are chiefly of interest to the ladies, any men interested are welcome to attend the afternoon meetings and they are especially invited to attend the Thursday evening program.

This will include the showing of two motion pictures, "Building a Home With Western Pines" and "Building Sutter's Empire."

Exhibits will include miniature model homes and other features of home planning, and in addition there will be available booklets intended to assist homebuilders in meeting some of the problems which are presented in a consideration of a new home.

During the cooking school, Miss Baker is wearing house dresses selected from The Cash Mercantile Stores Company and from the Beverly Dress Shop. Milk and cream for her demonstrations are provided by the Pino Vista Dairy and the kitchen laundry service is by the American Laundry.

Arcade Bakery is supplying bread for the demonstrations; meats are by Whitney's Market in the Lynn & O'Neil store, and vegetables are by Worrell's Vegetable and Fruit Market.

Following the formalities of the greeting Wednesday afternoon, Miss Baker opened the homemaking demonstrations by pointing out features to be considered in an "oven" (Continued on Page Three)

Exhibitors each will have an attendant at their display booth to consult with persons interested relative to home planning or home building and their related problems. Firms co-operating in this service are The Diamond Match Company, Ferrari's Lumber Company and Blair Brothers Lumber Company.

The exhibitors state that questions relative to building and remodeling are invited; that they will do their best to answer the inquiries to the best of their ability and that no one need feel obligated in any way for participating in the benefits afforded by this service.

PASSPORT TO PERIL

In Miami, Jim Talbot, adventurer, meets James Long, his exact double. Long is about to sail for Costanagua, Central American republic, in response to a mysterious appeal from Zachary Webb, veteran soldier of fortune. When unknown plotters slay Long, Jim assumes his identity and sails in his place. In Costanagua, he presents himself to Zach Webb as "Long," and learns that a man named Strade is fomenting a revolution. Long's dead father is a national hero, and Zach believes that his son—supposedly Jim—can turn the natives against Strade. Meanwhile, Jim has fallen in love with Strade's beautiful secretary, Vara. He and Zach and Don Jose Alvarado de Montez go through the country to rally the natives to their side, but Strade denounces Jim as an impostor. Even Zach and Don Jose become suspicious, and Don Jose goes to cable Miami for information. Jim, fearing he will be accused of Long's murder, seeks Vara's aid, believing she knows that Strade is guilty, but she insists she knows nothing about it.

CHAPTER XXVII

AS JIM and Vara and their guide drew nearer to Chepulto late in the afternoon, they passed or were overtaken by numbers of natives headed in the same direction.

Jim and Vara had not spoken to each other since the angry words that had passed between them at the outset of the journey, but now Vara broke the silence to inquire why all these people were bound toward Chepulto.

"Zach Webb has sent for them," Jim told her more slowly, "to hear whatever news Don Jose brings back from Cochila tonight. Zach thinks it will be proof that I'm James Long." He laughed bitterly. "I'll probably be mobbed when the natives learn the true nature of that news!"

Vara threw him a quick glance, but said nothing.

Darkness had fallen when they at last reached the outskirts of Chepulto. The village was aflame with torches and swarming with people.

Jim drew rein at the edge of town. He had better not ride through that throng, he decided. If Don Jose had already returned and these people had heard the result of his trip to Cochila, it would be dangerous to go among them. He had better get to the headman's house by a roundabout back route.

He turned to Vara, and said coldly, "I don't know why you've come here with me, since you refuse to aid me, but now that you're here, you can look out for yourself in a little while, you should have some good news to take back to Strade. I hope you enjoy the spectacle when I'm mobbed!"

With that, he wheeled his pony, kicked its flanks, and rode off into the darkness.

HE SKIRTED the village until he reached a spot not far from the rear of the headman's house. There, he dismounted and tied his pony to a tree. Then he crept toward the house.

He had almost reached it when he heard excited shouts coming from the torchlit street. He stole forward to a point where he could see what was going on without being seen. Crouching in the shadows, he saw that Don Jose had just ridden up and was dismounting. Zach had come out to greet him, and the people in the street were crowding about him.

When the two old men had disappeared into the house, Jim, stooping low, moved toward an open, lighted window and pressed himself flat against the wall beside it.

Don Jose's voice, weary and dejected, floated out to him.

"I bring bad news, Senor Webb—very bad news!"

"I had already guessed it," Zach grunted grimly. "He disappeared this morning. That told me! So Strade's story is true, isn't it? He is not Long?"

"No—he is not. But that is not the worst, Senor Webb. I dread to tell you the rest. It—it is terrible!"

"Go on," said Zach, tersely.

There was a moment's silence before Don Jose spoke again—slowly and painfully.

"The real Jimmy Long... is dead... and this young man we've been harboring is evidently his murderer!"

"What!"

Jim heard the clatter of a chair as Zach leaped to his feet.

"It is true," Don Jose continued. "I was as shocked as you—but there seems to be little doubt about it."

"How did you learn this?" gasped Zach.

There was the rustle of paper as Don Jose replied.

"The story is in this American newspaper, which I happened to buy when I reached Cochila. Here is the item. After I read it, I did not need to cable to Miami."

JIM, tense, leaned closer to the window as Zach took the newspaper and began to read aloud:

"The identity of an unknown man, found murdered in Miami, Florida, last week, was positively established by authorities today as James Long, former clerk in a travel bureau."

"Tentative identification had been made by hotel employees shortly after the body was found in a court behind the hotel at which Long had been registered on the night of the crime. However, due to certain contradictory circumstances, there was considerable doubt."

"A man recognized as Long, and using his name, had checked out of the hotel about the time of the murder, as set by the medical examiner, and had taken a taxi to the docks with the intention of boarding the Sea Gull, which sailed for Costanagua a few hours later. Moreover, a radiogram to the Sea Gull on the following day brought a reply that this man was aboard and had succeeded in identifying himself as Long."

"It then developed that Long, early on the evening of the crime, had been seen in a barroom in the company of a shabbily dressed man who bore a striking resemblance to him. As the corpse was also shabbily dressed, it was believed for a time that the murder victim was this stranger, Long's double."

"However, the police were not satisfied with this conclusion and, after further investigation, have now positively identified the body as Long's by means of dentistry and by fingerprints obtained from Long's hotel room."

"Though the police refuse to commit themselves, it is understood that they are working on the theory that the murderer is the stranger seen with Long in the barroom. At any rate, it is apparent that this man switched clothes with Long, appropriated his papers and luggage and, taking advantage of his resemblance to Long, sailed for Costanagua under his name. A plausible conclusion would be that he did so to throw the police off and to escape detection and apprehension..."

ZACH'S voice trailed off. For a long moment, there was silence.

Finally, he said brokenly, "To think that we were taken in by the fellow! To think that we have been making a hero of the man who killed Jim Long's poor son!"

"Si," Don Jose agreed gloomily. "And the natives, when they hear this, they will turn on us in a rage. It is the end, Senor Webb—the death blow to our hopes of stopping the revolution. My poor country, she is finished!"

Jim squared his shoulders and gritted his teeth. The time had come to go in and face the wrath of the two old men—to try to make them believe the true story of Long's murder.

He moved away from the window, and around the house toward the entrance.

LEGION AND 20-30 PLAN SEASON'S FIRST GOLF TOURNAMENT

Accepting the challenge of the American Legion, Post 119, to a golf tournament, the local 20-30 Club will attempt to put an eight-man team on the fairways Sunday morning to keep the veterans "in their places".

Ben Larson, chairman of the club's tournament committee, and a member of the Legion team, report the first foursome will take off on the long flight at 8:30 Sunday morning.

The challenge, it was said, is part of an after-math of the former days when the annual challenge to an indoor track meet usually resulted in a win for 20-30ians. The affair will probably be a straight match tournament without handicap, and some observers who claim to be unbiased in opinion, say the Legion golfers will take the match with scarcely a struggle.

Chamber Of Commerce Meets March 24th

The March meeting of the Chamber will be held at Hotel Raffles on Monday evening, March 24th. This is one week later than the regular "third Monday of the month" and the attention of the membership is being directed to the variance in schedule for this month.

needs, and at this parade of super-values, one could learn the true value of cooperating with local merchants and find the opportunity to select from a large assortment of styles and attractive prices. Exquisite taste and displayed in all selections and we salute these shops and stores for bringing to Placerville the latest and best in all lines of women's wearing apparel.

Those who were so generous in their displays were W. T. Mattocks, Beverly Dress Shop; Mrs. May Byers, May-Den Shop; and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Wudell of the Women's Dress Shop.

Mrs. John Nelson, president of the club, was general chairman of the affair, interviewing stores and shops and supervising the preliminaries.

To Mrs. R. H. Weidman, refreshment committee chairman, much credit must be given for dainty and artistic preparation, tea table arrangement and superior service. Detail throughout was quite apparent and this finale to an afternoon so enjoyably spent elicited praise and commendation.

The remaining members of Mrs. Weidman's committee were: Mrs. R. A. Sinclair, Mrs. Paul LaBrie, Mrs. A. A. McKinnon and Mrs. Lester McKenzie. They were assisted in serving by ten high school girls, members of Miss Olson's domestic science class, who performed this service at the invitation of Mrs. Weidman. Their committee consisted of Miss Lois Miller as supervisor, and the Misses Helen Bathurst, eBtty eBattle, eBtty eLefever, Eunice Hazen, Faye Immer, Irene Moettini, Elouise Patchen, Hazel Prosser, Laura Pierson. Due to illness, Miss Anita Scott was unable to be present. The dainty formals, in pastel shades, worn by these

PEACE DISTURBANCE AND ASSAULT CHARGE IN BUSINESS DISPUTE

Following an encounter arising out of differences in their business association, Earl Floberg on Tuesday brought charges of assault and battery against Herbert Hamlin and the defendant was detained later in the county jail until released later in the afternoon on cash bail of $250 to appear for hearing in the city court on March 27th.

During the afternoon Mrs. Geo. Taylor, proprietor of the Santa Rita Hotel, where the encounter took place, also brought charges of disturbing the peace against Mr. Hamlin. Further hearing in this matter was scheduled for March 28th and the bail set on the assault charge was made to apply also to the second charge.
